OPS QUESTION BOX The Office of Price Stabilization is a part of your government. It will gladly answer any questions you may have about inflation and price regulations. Send your questions to this newspaper or direct to the Information Division, OPS District Office, at 616 Congress Street in Portland.

Q: Are the coat hangers I make at home subject to ceiling prices?
A: You are what the OPS refers to as a "small home manufacturer." Products made at home can be sold without ceiling prices if your annual sales are less than $1,000. Home manufacture in greater dollar volume than that are subject to regulation.

Q: How can I be sure of what I get when I buy a pre-cubed steak?
A: Pre-cubed steak, by OPS beef ceiling regulation, must be free of all fat except marbling. Steaks may be pre-cubed from sirloin tips, boneless sirloin, and boneless top and bottom beef rounds only. No pre-cubed steaks of any grade may be sold at a price higher than the price fixed for cubed steaks. In Group One and Two steaks it is prohibited.

LOCAL CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS HOLD THANKSGIVING SERVICE On Thanksgiving Day a well-attended service was held by The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., and its branches throughout the United States and Canada and in many parts of the world.

Appropriate to the occasion the subject of the Lesson-Sermon was "Thanksgiving," the Golden Text being from Psalms (Psalms 92): "It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto thy name, O most High."

Among the Scriptural passages in the Lesson-Sermon were the following verses from Psalms (Psalms 100: 2, 4, 6): "Serve the Lord with singing. Enter his gates with gladness, come before his presence with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise, be thankful unto him, and bless his name. For the Lord is good, his mercy is everlasting, and his truth endureth to all generations."

Correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook included the following selections: "To those learning on the sustaining influence to-day is big with blessing. In divine Science, man is sustained by God, the divine Principle of being. God is not moved by the breath of praise; to do more than He has already done, nor can the infinite do less than bestow all good, since He is unchanged wisdom and Love. Christian Science takes naught from the perfection of God, but it ascribes to Him the entire glory." (pages 911, 1-3, 230, 2-6, 2-8-11, & 223, 5-7)

This service in observance of Thanksgiving Day was held at the home of David and Irma Thompson, Vernon Street, Bethel.

Thank truly, and thy thoughts shall the world's famine feed. Speak truly, and each word of thine shall be a fruitful seed. Love truly, and thy life shall be a great and noble deed. — Horatio Bonar

REV. ROBERT H. HALL

Laws for the New Nation (Temperance)

Lessons Exodus 19: 7-8; 23: 1-13

Memory Selection: Exodus 19: 8

PAUL WRITES that the powers that be are ordained of God. This had been demonstrated ages before his time in the wilderness, as Moses laid down laws for the new nation that had escaped from Egyptian bondage.

The Ten Commandments were given; also rules for daily living. Though changes come in conditions of life and vary with different quarters of the world, the principles of right living remain unchanged as they are found in the ancient laws given by Moses.

It is taught throughout the great Book that penalties must follow upon broken law. A man cannot sin and "get by." Law being from God, there can be no hope of escape from the penalty if the law be broken. Let this fact be considered now when so many of the bars against evil have been let down and there is much moral laxity and indifference toward the high claims of life that once held the allegiance of the majority of our people.

We can but "view with alarm" the tolerance with which the many seem to regard the indulgence of strong drink and impaired civic life. A visitor from Mars might at once conclude that the chief business of the American people is that of making and drinking strong liquor. But there is nothing that so swiftly and inexorably brings its ruin to men and demonstrates that broken law must be avenged by the penalty exacted.

CIVIL DEFENSE

PUBLIC SAFETY

Here are two of the most frequently asked questions and their answers.

Does Maine need to fear enemy air attack?

In case of war, Maine will be on the air-route to major eastern target areas. As State OD Director, Spaulding Blodde, recently pointed out: "When bombers are shot down, consequently, any city, town or village could feel the effect of enemy air attack although it is not in a primary target area."

Maine citizens should not forget that we do have some industrial and military targets; attacks upon them would directly affect the lives and fortunes of practically every resident of our state.

Moreover, enemy planes which find it impossible to reach their primary goal, generally "dump" their bombs on any target which presents itself.

It must also be remembered that Maine has a large agricultural economy, and for that reason is a target for various types of biological warfare directed against the production of farm goods so vital to a fighting nation.

Can't our military forces prevent an air attack upon this country?

The Chief of Staff of the U. S. Air Force, Gen. Hoyt H. Vandenberg, recently said that 70% of the enemy's planes would penetrate our defense despite interceptor planes and anti-aircraft guns and radar screens.

Gen. Vandenberg then went on to say that "people must cooperate with civil defense authorities to increase their chances for survival."

There is no one who is going to do the job for you. Civil Defense is your business. See your local civil defense director NOW!

FRED E. WHEELER: A Tribute

Everybody knew Fred and liked him for many engaging qualities. His friendly ways and genial manner, his quick wit, and ready smile will always be vivid memories.

For rest and relaxation in a busy existence, he turned toward nature; the woods and streams continually lulled him. The greater part of the last two days of his life were passed happily in deer hunting with a friend with whom he had shared many similar adventures in the years that are gone.

Fred was a great lover of games and sports; cards, croquet or golf he played wholeheartedly. It was at a public game party surrounded by friends and accompanied by his wife that he suffered the sudden and fatal heart attack.

Pets were special friends of his—his own dogs and cats and even the neighbors' dogs followed him trustingly.

To his foster parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Grover, who bestowed on him the love they would have given an own son, he ever showed respect and filial devotion.

Very early in life Fred and Merle Philbrook were united in marriage. Their union was a long and happy one blessed by three sons who have been singularly devoted to their parents.

The sincere sympathy of an entire townspeople goes out not only to the bereaved immediate family but to the four sisters who survive him.

TIBBETTS - SAVARD

Miss Pauline Savard, daughter of Mrs. Leo Savard of Grafton Street, Berlin, N. H., and the late Louis Savard, was united in marriage with Zane Tibbetts of West Bethel, son of Mrs. Louisa Tibbetts of South Paris, Nov. 17. Rev. Odore Gendron officiated at the 8 a. m. nuptial Mass, held at the Angel Guardian Church.

Given in marriage by her brother, Arthur Savard, the bride wore a gown of traditional white satin on train and yoke trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. A coronet of seed pearls held in place her (fingertip veil, and she carried a bouquet of white lilies and carnations.

For her duties as maid of honor, Miss Irene Gagnon wore a sheer yellow gown with matching headband, and carried a colonial bouquet. Armand Marcotte attended the groom and Marie McInnis acted as best man.

Following a reception, the young couple left on their wedding trip to points of interest in Maine. Mrs. Tibbetts travelled in a grey dress with red top, black accessories and a corsage of white roses. They will make their home in West Bethel.

The bride attended Angel Guardian School and graduated from Notre Dame High in 1947. The groom attended West Bethel schools and operates a wood truck.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Greetings to Maud and Leslie
1901-1951

Half a century!! Quite a stretch to look ahead to; endless years of work and worry, sun and rain. Sometimes laughter, sometimes tears.

Looking backward, 'tis not long. Sure, you'd travel it again. Save the courage and the hope. Throw away the tears and pain.

Maud was slim and shy and pretty—Brown eyes, gentle heart, sweet mind—

Leslie brawny, tall and rugged—Handsome guy as one could find.

Leg-o-mutton sleeves Maud wore, Leslie drove a spanking team. Same old courting, same old moon In the same old sky agleam.

Then the children—quite a crowd—Healthy, happy girls and boys. Colds, measles, whooping cough, Always plenty of fun and noise.

They are upright men and women Just the kind the old world needs. So be proud. Not every couple With their kids so well succeeds.

Not much change in you, good friends. Backs are straight and eyes still bright.

Every day new promise brings. Hopes still high and hearts still light.

May you both keep hale and hearty, Live and laugh, stay just the same. Rise above gray hair and wrinkles. Beating old time at his game!
